MILLS IS TREASURY HEAD; MELLON NAMED TO LONDON EMBASSY

Under-Secretary To Succeed Mellon Who Succeeds Dawes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Selection of Ogden L. Mills as secretary of the treasury, succeeding Andrew W. Mellon who becomes ambassador to Great Britain, was officially announced at the White House today.

Mellon succeeds Charles G. Dawes who returned from the Court of St. James, to head the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

In announcing his appointment of the Pennsylvania banker to the London post, and Mellon's acceptance, President Hoover said: "The critical situation facing all countries in their international relations, the manifold economic and other problems demanding wise solution in our national interests, call for experience and judgment of the highest order. The importance to our country of the sound determination of these world-wide difficulties needs no emphasis."

"I have decided therefore, to call upon one of our wisest and most experienced public servants to accept a position which will enable him, after many years of distinguished service at home, to render equal service to this country in the foreign field."

"I have asked Mr. Mellon to undertake the ambassadorship to Great Britain. I am happy to say he has now expressed his willingness to serve."

Mr. Mellon had for the past two weeks been trying to persuade the Pittsburgh financier to accept the post vacated by General Dawes, particularly because of Mellon's genius for finances, it was reported. With world economies in their present economic state and the delicate situation confronting European debts owing to the United States, Mellon's acceptance is looked upon with particular favor in the senate financial circles.

Mellon at first opposed President Hoover and insisted upon remaining at the treasury, chiefly because of his advanced age. He is 76 years old. Mutual friends insisted upon his acceptance, and familiarity with European affairs, dating from the World War, made it imperative he should accept the call to the highest post in the American diplomatic corps.

Praised as the "greatest secretary of the treasury since Alexander Hamilton," and vigorously denounced in the halls of congress, Mellon has served under Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover. He was appointed in March, 1921.

America's war debt of $26,000,000,000 has been reduced to $17,000,000,000 under the guidance of Secretary Mellon. Only one man, Albert Gallatin, of Pennsylvania, served a longer period in the treasury. He served thirteen years in the early years of the republic.

Secretary Mellon said the affairs of the treasury are in such condition that he could be relieved of his post, almost immediately without difficulty. Mills, who has been bearing the brunt of the work for many months, is prepared to carry on as head of the department.

The latter, a member of the board of directors of the reconstruction finance corporation, succeeded General Winston, as an undersecretary, following a career in congress.

POLICEMAN SLAYS BANDIT; IS SHOT

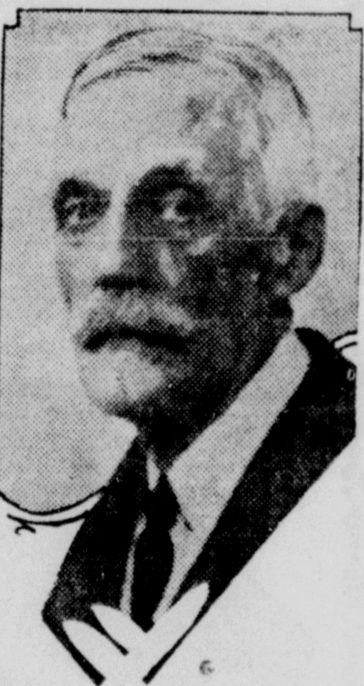

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4.—A gun battle waged today between a patrolman and two men he surprised robbing a restaurant, ended with one man dead and the patrolman in the hospital, a bullet through his cheek.

Larson, taken to Hahnemann Hospital, said he was passing the restaurant when one of the men came out shouting "beat it."

As Larson entered the restaurant, the burglar fired, one of the bullets ripping through his cheek. He retaliated, emptying his own weapon. One of the bullets caught Campbell in the heart, two others entered his chest. The second burglar escaped.

RETURN DOLLARS TO WORK SAYS HOOVER; CALLS CONFERENCE

Appeals To Nation To Put Hoarded Money In Circulation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—President Hoover's action in appealing to the nation to bring hoarded money from its hiding place and release over a billion, three hundred million dollars was hailed in political and financial circles as highly significant.

The executive's move in calling several hundred heads of business and financial organizations to Washington next Saturday for an "anti-hoarding conference" generally was interpreted as meaning that the administration believes conditions are again stable enough to warrant widespread "conservative investment."

His statement urging the public to put this vast amount of fear-stricken money back to work was accepted as a formal declaration of willingness to assume full responsibility for the safety of renewed financial excursions into fields of moderate interest return.

Political ground-listeners believed Mr. Hoover was staking a large portion of his campaign for re-election on a bold move to organize a national propaganda campaign that will inspire the timid soul to pour his savings back into circulation.

"I urge," said the President, "all those persons to put their dollars to work—either by conservative investment, or by deposit in sound institutions in order that it may thus return into the channels of economic life."

The Hoover prospectus for Saturday's assemblage made the situation analogous to conditions which prevailed during the World War. The war against depression, he said, calls for an equally united front.

"If our people will give now the same service and the same confidence to our government and our institutions, the same unity and solidarity of courageous action which they gave during the great war, we can overcome this situation," said the presidential statement.

"I call upon our civic associations to organize in every state and town to make clear the problem and to effect our purpose," he declared.

The $1,300,000,000 estimate of money withdrawn from banks and other financial institutions and almost literally buried in the back yard was the President's own figure. He solemnly chided all hoarders of currency as those responsible for the stifling of credit—"The blood stream of our economic life."

"Every dollar hoarded means a dollar lost to the nation," he asserted.

"Every dollar returned from hoarding to circulation means putting men to work. It means help to agriculture and business."

"A prime need today is the extension of credit facilities to farmers and small men. The credit institutions are greatly crippled in furnishing these needed credits, unless the hoarded money is returned."

CHESTER, Pa., Feb. 4.—Searchers exploring the blackened hull of the oil tanker Bidwell, which exploded early today off Marcus Hook, found the charred body of Capt. Joseph River in the debris shortly after 10 a. m. raising the toll of the blast to four known dead.

Bodies of half a dozen other members of the crew, trapped by fire which followed the blasts, were reported found at the same time but officials of the Sun Oil Company declined to disclose the exact number. A dozen persons reported missing after the blasts were believed to be dead.

CHESTER, Pa., Feb. 4.—Four terrific blasts which wrecked the oil tanker Bidwell today off Marcus Hook killed three men, critically wounded at least five more and injured less seriously nearly a score of others.

Search for about twenty other members of the tank's crew, including the captain, was carried on by rescue vessels in the Delaware River, where the blackened hull of the doomed craft shattered by the explosions still smoldered.

The river front was being searched for bodies of possible victims. It was believed forty-six persons were on board the ship at the time of the blast, including the wife of Captain Rivers, who was seriously injured when she was hurled from the Bidwell by the blast.

The known dead were: Stephen Marks, 28, Philadelphia. Roy Hamilton, 30, Marietta, Ga. Edward Russell, 35, Marcus Hook.

Marks was dead when brought to Crozier Hospital here. Hamilton and Russell died in Chester Hospital soon after being admitted.

Doctors feared several more of those in the hospital were so severely burned they could not recover.

Olaf Rasmussen, 31, Marcus Hook, was the victim of the accident was brought to Chester Hospital suffering from severe burns.

The first explosion sent a column of fire 200 feet into the air. Several men on deck were hurled into the icy river.

The other blast came in quick succession, tearing the vessel nearly in half. Men tumbled from their bunks in the wreckage which had caught fire.

A life boat which some of the men sought to lower proved useless when the davit rope stuck. Frightened by the roaring furnace on which they found themselves, a number of men leaped into the Delaware, which by then was covered with patches of flaming oil.

Ambulances, fire apparatus and life boats responded to the first alarm from many neighboring cities. The force of the explosion was such it was heard twenty miles away in Philadelphia. In houses nearer to Marcus Hook, windows were shattered and sleepers tossed from their beds. A huge crowd gathered to watch the spectacular blaze and the rescue efforts.

The Bidwell was owned by the Sun Oil Company, but was anchored at a dock of the Sinclair Oil Company. It had arrived Tuesday from Texas with a cargo of oil.

CEDAR VALE, Kan., Feb. 4.—A gang of five bandits today captured the town of Cedar Vale and after kidnapping Carl Osborne, a Santa Fe Railroad employe, severed all telephone and telegraph lines and looted the Cedar Vale National Bank of $6,000.

FAVORS BETTING

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 4.—A bill introduced in the New York assembly by William Breitenbach, Brooklyn Democrat, proposes a constitutional amendment to set up a system of pari-mutuel betting at New York race tracks. Breitenbach declared his measure would bring in large sums in revenue and would make possible elimination of other "vexatious taxes."

ROSE ALLEN TESTIFIES FOR STATE

These interesting character studies of Rose Allen were made in the courtroom at Norristown, Pa., during the trial of her brother, Edward Allen, for the murder of his sister's suitor, Francis Donaldson, son of a wealthy Philadelphia family. Still faithful to the memory of her dead sweetheart, Miss Allen took the witness stand and testified for the state in a packed courtroom.

SANTIAGO CLEARS DEBRIS THAT FOLLOWS QUAKE; TWELVE DEAD

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Feb. 4.—A saddened populace today began the gigantic task of clearing away the debris in the wake of yesterday's quake which, despite the extent of its damage, almost miraculously took only about a dozen lives.

The death toll was estimated at twelve, with the possibility it might mount slightly higher as rescuers worked. Several hundred persons were injured, although the majority in lesser degree.

The quake damaged about two thirds of the city's buildings and leveled nearly half of them. Damage was estimated at $10,000,000. Deaths first had been estimated as high as 1,000.

Doctors and nurses worked feverishly to administer aid to the injured. They were helped by A. U. S. destroyers which arrived with medical supplies.

RELIEF COMMITTEE SENDS FOOD SUPPLY TO NEEDY CHILDREN

State Votes $25,000 To Send Help To Athens County

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 4.—Approximately 10,000 undernourished and needy school children in Athens County, where 7,000 miners have refused to work because of reduced wages, were consoled today as food was rushed to them by the state unemployment and relief committee.

The state emergency board met the appalling situation Wednesday by voting an appropriation of $25,000 to provide food for the destitute children from now until the end of the school year.

Headed by Miss Ira Winebrenner of the state relief department, social workers left for the impoverished fields today with the first rationals which were to be passed out at noon. Two meals will be allotted to each school child daily. Breakfast will consist of four ounces of cooked crushed wheat with milk and sugar. Vegetable soup and four ounces of cooked mush with syrup will make up the luncheon.

Under the direction of Miss Winebrenner, relief stations will be established in various sections. While relief work is confined to the Athens region at present, later it is planned to extend it to needy children throughout the state.

While the $25,000 appropriation will be used solely for food, shoes and clothing will be purchased from the $31,000 received from charity football games last fall.

PILOT KILLED BY AIR CRASH

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Feb. 4.—Francis Rust, 34-year-old pilot of the Trans-American Airlines Corporation, died in Bronson Hospital today of injuries received when the plane crashed during a night run from Detroit to Chicago.

Relatives of the dead flier at Calvesco, Tex., have been notified.

AUTOPSY MAY CLEAR MYSTERY OF DEATHS

MT. VERNON, O., Feb. 4.—Upon the results of an autopsy was pinned today the hope of diagnosing the strange illness that during the last two weeks has taken the lives of three children.

The autopsy was performed yesterday upon six-year-old Marion Kasz, one of the three victims.

The other two children who have succumbed to the mysterious malady are Marion's older brothers, Raymond, 8, and Stanley, 9.

Physicians believe the three children were victims of "snake root" poisoning contracted from cow's milk, but they withheld an official verdict until a thorough examination can be completed in about a week.

TWO HOUSE MEMBERS CLAIMED BY DEATH

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Two veteran Southern members of the house of representatives died here early today.

Today's session of the house was adjourned in respect to their memory.

Rep. Samuel Rutherford (D) of Forsyth, Ga., died in the bathroom of his hotel suite, following a heart attack.

Rep. Percy E. Quinn (D) of McComb, Miss., died following several weeks of illness.

The deaths of the two congressmen reduced the majority of the Democratic side of the house to five members. There is one Republican vacancy caused by the resignation of Rep. Leach of Pennsylvania.

DENSE FOG HALTS BRITISH SHIPPING

DOVER, Eng., Feb. 4.—The densest fog in years tied up all shipping in the English Channel today.

The congestion was so great that ships almost touched each other as they slowly groped their way through the heavy shroud in the Straits of Dover.

It was impossible to see the surface of the water from the decks of vessels.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Thousands of workers were delayed this morning as the worst fog of the year settled over London.

Trains from the suburbs were hours late, and in many areas of the city traffic was at a standstill.

Shipping in the Thames was paralyzed.

AMERICA AND GREAT BRITAIN WILL FILE PROTEST WITH JAPS

Join Against Disregard Of Foreign Rights In Settlement

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Further American and British protests to Japan against the continued wholesale disregard of foreign rights in the international settlement at Shanghai were in prospect today.

These protests were to be based upon official reports from the "war zone" of Japanese naval troops attacking Chinese troops in the Chapei district of Shanghai, and Japanese bombing planes operating against Chinese artillery in Chapei.

Official reports complained that Japanese bombing planes, enroute from the aircraft carrier, approach the scene of their bombing operations over the international settlement, drop their bombs as they cross over the settlement boundary into Chapei, and then returning to the aircraft carriers over the settlement. This compels the Chinese anti-aircraft guns to direct their fire at the planes on a line which takes the shells over the settlement. A number of shells have fallen into the settlement with great property damage.

The American and British military commanders have also complained that the whole plan of Japanese offense and defense is based upon the international settlement. Their attacks upon Chinese troops in the Chapei district are made from a base within the settlement, and in event they were defeated the Japanese would retreat into the settlement. This would subject the settlement to a concerted attack by Chinese troops.

Whether these additional representations, supplementing the three each that already have been made by the United States and Great Britain regarding Japanese activities in Shanghai, would be made before Japan's reply to the "peace proposals" submitted by the powers is received, could not be learned. That these abuses of international rights in the settlement were still continuing, despite repeated protests of America and Britain, added to the concern with which the whole situation is viewed.

Secretary of State Stimson had a long, secret conference with the Japanese Ambassador, Katsuji De-

BAD BLIZZARD GRIPS CHICAGO

Traffic Congested By Severe Storm

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—A blinding blizzard, the first of the winter, paralyzed the Chicago metropolitan area today.

A heavy snowfall, driven by an icy gale sweeping across Lake Michigan, tied up traffic as thousands of workers were delayed on their way to their daily tasks.

The United States Weather Bureau reported the blizzard as extending into northern Indiana and Southern Michigan.

Bureau officials predicted that it would not become general, but that there would probably be an eight inch snowfall.

The weather bureau predicted a temperature of ten degrees at nightfall.

PANA, Ill., Feb. 4.—Central Illinois was all but isolated by the blizzard which swept this region today.

Telephone, telegraph and power lines are down and train schedules paralyzed.

Sleet and rain through the night coated wires with ice and froze railroad block signal mechanism and switches.

The rain had turned to snow today, which was drifted by a heavy wind.

YOUTH KILLED BY GAS BLAST

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 4.—Harold Seymour, 18, of Route 4, Delaware, died in St. Francis Hospital here today from burns received in a gas explosion that occurred when he struck a match to light a cigarette.

The explosion took place in a bathroom of the home of Mrs. Oma Popp, an aunt, where the youth and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Seymour, were visiting.

The gas accumulated in the bathroom from a small gas heater which had been turned on without being lighted, according to firemen who were called to extinguish flames which followed the blast.

REFUSES REQUEST TO HALT MOBILIZATION; BATTLE STILL RAGES

Invaders Vaguely Agree To Other Clauses In Peace Proposal; Chinese Hold Lines But Artillery Weak; Deny Jap Ship Sunk

By International News Service
Refusing to be swayed by the appeal from the four great powers for speedy steps to end the conflict in the Far East, the Japanese government today flatly refused to halt mobilization of her armed forces.

The refusal was embodied in Japan's reply to the five-point peace proposal made by the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy, and handed to the ambassadors of those nations in Tokyo by Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshisawa.

The Japanese reply vaguely accepted the proposal for establishment of a neutral zone in Shanghai, but stated that Japanese troops could be withdrawn only if the Chinese forces fell back far enough so that Japanese nationals in the beleaguered city would not be endangered.

Meanwhile, furious fighting continued in Shanghai, where Japanese artillery and naval guns bombarded the Chapei area and the ruins of the Woosung Fort area at the mouth of the Whangpoo River, where Chinese artillery batteries were drawn up behind the shattered walls of the ancient garrison, wrecked by an aerial bombardment yesterday.

TOKYO, Feb. 4.—Japan tonight flatly refused to halt mobilization of her armed forces, as demanded by the four powers in their five-point peace proposal designed to end the Sino-Japanese conflict.

Japan's reply to the peace proposal, embodying this unqualified rejection of one of the terms of the suggestion, was handed to the British and American ambassadors by Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshisawa at 7 p. m. tonight.

In the reply, the Japanese government vaguely agreed to withdraw its armed forces from Shanghai on condition that Chinese troops fall back far enough from the city to forestall any further danger to the lives and property of Japanese nationals.

The suggestion for establishment of a neutral zone at Shanghai was accepted in principle, the government notifying the commander of the Japanese forces at Shanghai to negotiate with foreign consular officials for establishment of the zone.

Japan served notice once again that in any investigation of the present crisis in the Far East, the situations in Manchuria and at Shanghai must be considered as separate and unconnected issues.

The reply was handed to the ambassadors after Emperor Hirohito had given it his approval. Copies of the reply were placed in the hands of the envoys of France and Italy as well as those of Great Britain and the United States.

Foreign Minister Yoshisawa drafted the answer after a lengthy conference with Prince Saloni, 84-year old "elder statesman" whose advice is invariably sought on questions of paramount importance.

In the reply, Japan agreed to cease hostile acts only on condition China definitely puts a stop to the hostile acts of Chinese irregulars as well as regular troops. Otherwise, the note pointed out, Japan reserves the right to freedom of action in the event of provocation.

The suggestion that hostile acts terminate immediately was the first point in the four-power peace proposal.

To the second proposal, namely that no further mobilization or preparation for further hostilities take place, Yoshisawa replied that it was impossible for Japan to give any such undertaking "in view of the unreliability of the Chinese."

SHANGHAI, Feb. 4, 6 p. m.—Japan artillery and the huge guns of Japanese warships in the Whangpoo River battered away at the Chinese defenses in Shanghai today.

With the approach of darkness, the Japanese bombardment continued without any sign of cessation after virtually an all-day attack.

The Chinese lines appeared to be holding their own both in the Chapei area and at Woosung, fourteen miles north, where detachments of Chinese artillery were stationed in back of the shattered walls of the Woosung Fort, blown to pieces during a terrific naval and aerial bombardment yesterday.

Japanese warships were concentrating their fire on the Chinese railway at Chianwan, midway between Shanghai and Woosung.

One thousand Chinese troops assigned to the Woosung garrison who were forced to evacuate their positions when an aerial bombardment reduced their barracks to shambles, retired to Chianwan and entrenched themselves.

Japanese marines who were landed at Woosung after the bombardment, however, failed to follow up their advantage, and returned to their warships after ascertaining that the guns of the ancient fort were completely out of action.

Retirement of the Japanese gave Chinese military leaders an unexpected opportunity to rush artillery batteries to positions behind the ruined fort.

Fires spread through the beleaguered Chapei area, sweeping along a frontage of about four miles. From observation posts the international settlement boundary more than twenty separate fires were easily distinguishable, the largest being at the North Station, which was turned into a roaring furnace.

Watch-tower observers reported seeing frequent flashes in the direction of the mouth of the Whangpoo, confirming reports that Japanese warships were participating in the furious bombardment.

Japanese airplanes, engaging in a new form of attack, the dropping of incendiary bombs to set fire to Chinese properties, gave the international settlement the most serious menace it has yet met.

One bomb struck a Chinese house within the settlement boundary, and it burst into flames immediately. Municipal firemen fought valiantly to localize the blaze, which threatened to spread among other Chinese dwellings within the settlement.

The incendiary bombs left a large section of the native sector of Chapei in flames, and a heavy pall of smoke drifted over the settlement, out over Lungshan, and continuing to hang low for a distance of ten miles.

Under cover of the heavy firing on the Woosung Forts area, a party of Japanese marines landed and advanced on the forts. They did not occupy the forts immediately, withdrawing on learning that the Chinese guns there were out of action and harmless. The forts were

Join Against Disregard Of Foreign Rights In Settlement

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Further American and British protests to Japan against the continued wholesale disregard of foreign rights in the international settlement at Shanghai were in prospect today.

These protests were to be based upon official reports from the "war zone" of Japanese naval troops attacking Chinese troops in the Chapei district of Shanghai, and Japanese bombing planes operating against Chinese artillery in Chapei.

Official reports complained that Japanese bombing planes, enroute from the aircraft carrier in the harbor consistently approach the scene of their bombing operations over the international settlement, drop their bombs as they cross over the settlement boundary into Chapei, and then returning to the aircraft carriers over the settlement.

This compels the Chinese anti-aircraft guns to direct their fire at the planes on a line which takes the shells over the settlement. A number of shells have fallen into the settlement with great property damage.

The American and British military commanders have also complained that the whole plan of Japanese offense and defense is based upon the international settlement.

Their attacks upon Chinese troops in the Chapei district are made from a base within the settlement, and in event they were defeated the Japanese would retreat into the settlement. This would subject the settlement to a concerted attack by Chinese troops.

Whether these additional representations, supplementing the three each that already have been made by the United States and Great Britain regarding Japanese activities in Shanghai, would be made before Japan's reply to the "peace proposals" submitted by the powers is received, could not be learned. That these abuses of international rights in the settlement were still continuing, despite repeated protests of America and Britain, added to the concern with which the whole situation is viewed.

Secretary of State Stimson had a long, secret conference with the Japanese Ambassador, Katsujir De-

BAD BLIZZARD GRIPS CHICAGO

Traffic Congested By Severe Storm

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—A blinding blizzard, the first of the winter, paralyzed the Chicago metropolitan area today.

A heavy snowfall, driven by an icy gale sweeping across Lake Michigan, tied up traffic as thousands of workers were delayed on their way to their daily tasks.

The United States Weather Bureau reported the blizzard as extending into northern Indiana and Southern Michigan.

Bureau officials predicted that it would not become general, but that there would probably be an eight inch snowfall.

The weather bureau predicted a temperature of ten degrees at nightfall.

PANA, Ill., Feb. 4.—Central Illinois was all but isolated by the blizzard which swept this region today.

Telephone, telegraph and power lines are down and train schedules paralyzed.

Sleet and rain through the night coated wires with ice and froze railroad block signal mechanism and switches.

The rain had turned to snow today, which was drifted by a heavy wind.

YOUTH KILLED BY GAS BLAST

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 4.—Harold Seymour, 18, of Route 4, Delaware, died in St. Francis Hospital here today from burns received in a gas explosion that occurred when he struck a match to light a cigarette.

The explosion took place in a bathroom of the home of Mrs. Oma Popp, an aunt, where the youth and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Seymour, were visiting.

The gas accumulated in the bathroom from a small gas heater which had been turned on without being lighted, according to firemen who were called to extinguish flames which followed the blast.

REFUSES REQUEST TO HALT MOBILIZATION; BATTLE STILL RAGES

Invaders Vaguely Agree To Other Clauses In Peace Proposal; Chinese Hold Lines But Artillery Weak; Deny Jap Ship Sunk

By International News Service

Refusing to be swayed by the appeal from the four great powers for speedy steps to end the conflict in the Far East, the Japanese government today flatly refused to halt mobilization of her armed forces.

The refusal was embodied in Japan's reply to the five-point peace proposal made by the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy, and handed to the ambassadors of those nations in Tokyo by Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshisawa.

The Japanese reply vaguely accepted the proposal for establishment of a neutral zone in Shanghai, but stated that Japanese troops could be withdrawn only if the Chinese forces fell back far enough so that Japanese nationals in the beleaguered city would not be endangered.

Meanwhile, furious fighting continued in Shanghai, where Japanese artillery and naval guns bombarded the Chapei area and the ruins of the Woosung Fort area at the mouth of the Whangpoo River, where Chinese artillery batteries were drawn up behind the shattered walls of the ancient garrison, wrecked by an aerial bombardment yesterday.

TOKYO, Feb. 4.—Japan tonight flatly refused to halt mobilization of her armed forces, as demanded by the four powers in their five-point peace proposal designed to end the Sino-Japanese conflict.

Japan's reply to the peace proposal, embodying this unqualified rejection of one of the terms of the suggestion, was handed to the British and American ambassadors by Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshisawa at 7 p. m. tonight.

In the reply, the Japanese government vaguely agreed to withdraw its armed forces from Shanghai on condition that Chinese troops fall back far enough from the city to forestall any further danger to the lives and property of Japanese nationals.

The suggestion for establishment of a neutral zone at Shanghai was accepted in principle, the government notifying the commander of the Japanese forces at Shanghai to negotiate with foreign consular officials for establishment of the zone.

Japan served notice once again that in any investigation of the present crisis in the Far East, the situations in Manchuria and at Shanghai must be considered as separate and unconnected issues.

The reply was handed to the ambassadors after Emperor Hirohito had given his approval. Copies of the reply were placed in the hands of the envoys of France and Italy as well as those of Great Britain and the United States.

Foreign Minister Yoshisawa drafted the answer after a lengthy conference with Prince Saloni, 44-year old "elder statesman," whose advice is invariably sought on questions of paramount importance.

In the reply, Japan agreed to cease hostile acts only on condition China definitely puts a stop to the hostile acts of Chinese irregulars as well as regular troops. Otherwise, the note pointed out, Japan reserves the right to freedom of action in the event of provocation.

The suggestion that hostile acts terminate immediately was the first point in the four-power peace proposal.

To the second proposal, namely that no further mobilization or preparation for further hostilities take place, Yoshisawa replied that it was impossible for Japan to give

Retirement of the Japanese gave Chinese military leaders an unexpected opportunity to rush artillery batteries to positions behind the ruined fort.

Fires spread through the beleaguered Chapei area, sweeping along a frontage of about four miles. From observation posts along the international settlement boundary more than twenty separate fires were easily distinguishable, the largest being at the North Station, which was turned into a roaring furnace.

Watch-tower observers reported seeing frequent flashes in the direction of the mouth of the Whangpoo, confirming reports that Japanese warships were participating in the furious bombardment.

Japanese airplanes, engaging in a new form of attack, the dropping of incendiary bombs to set fire to Chinese properties, gave the international settlement the most serious menace it has yet met.

One bomb struck a Chinese house within the settlement boundary, and it burst into flames immediately. Municipal firemen fought valiantly to localize the blaze, which threatened to spread among other Chinese dwellings within the settlement.

The incendiary bombs left a large section of the native sector of Chapei in flames, and a heavy pall of smoke drifted over the settlement, out over Lungshu, and continuing to hang low for a distance of ten miles.

Under cover of the heavy firing of Japanese marines landed and advanced on the forts. They did not occupy the forts immediately, withdrawing on learning that the Chinese guns there were out of action and harmless. The forts were

The supreme court recently rejected the appeal. McLean then applied for a rehearing.

In accord with the action of the appellate court, the case must now go back to the common pleas court, for new trial.

IDENTIFY OWNER OF TRUCK THAT CAUSED ACCIDENT ON PIKE

Ora Willbaum, 424 S. Second St., Tippencanoe City, was identified Wednesday as the owner of a truck involved in a collision in which Alva Walker, 55, Jamestown, suffered serious injuries when his coupe crashed into the parked vehicle in a heavy fog Tuesday night on the Wilmington Pike, six miles from Xenia.

Although the license plates had been removed from the truck, Sheriff John Baughn was able to establish the ownership through the motor numbers, he said.

Willbaum, after being notified of the accident, came to Xenia Wednesday, the sheriff said, and visited Walker at McClellan Hospital, where the Jamestown man is confined with a leg fracture, severe scalp lacerations and body bruises. No charges are expected to be filed against the trucker.

Inquiries by Sheriff Baughn developed the fact that the trucker and Cleo Baker, also of Tippencanoe City, who was with Willbaum, were hauling iron from Wilmington for Israel Brothers, Dayton junk dealers, when their truck broke down along the highway. The vehicle, which was without lights, authorities say, when the accident occurred, had been pulled partly off the highway but the rear end still extended on the pavement.

Sheriff Baughn said he had also established the fact the truck was sold to Willbaum last January 27 by the S. W. S. Co., Second and Jefferson Sts., Dayton, but that a bill of sale had never been filed to make the transfer, and that the vehicle was being driven with license plates issued for another make of truck.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable matter which when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

WILL RUN FOR SEAT IN CONGRESS

Mrs. Regina Rambo Benson and her children, Regina Ann, Marcellus and Warren Edgar.

Mrs. Regina Rambo Benson of Marietta, Ga., has announced her candidacy for a congressional seat to succeed M. C. Tarver. Mrs. Benson has three children, Regina Ann, 11; Marcellus, 4, and Warren Edgar, 8. She is a widow and favors a dry referendum.

POSTPONE HEARING OF MORROW MOTION PLANNED THURSDAY

A hearing assigned for Thursday morning, at which arguments were to be presented in connection with a motion for a new trial for Ralph Morrow, 38, owner of the Osborn Hotel, recently convicted of grand larceny by a Common Pleas Court jury, was postponed indefinitely by Judge R. L. Gowdy.

Judge Gowdy indicated that he would reserve his decision in the case of Morrow and five other suspects under indictment as an outgrowth of the $619.50 robbery at the Charles Monnet home, November 20 last, until all of the accused men have either changed their pleas to guilty or have been brought to trial.

Trial of A. B. Malotte, Osborn filling station and restaurant owner, another of the accused men, has been assigned for February 17, and he will also be tried on a reduced charge of grand larceny, it is announced.

The burglary charges on which the suspects were indicted will be dropped, inasmuch as authorities say forcible entry was not made to the Monnet residence. The group of men who visited the home was admitted to the house and did not gain entrance through a ruse, it is said. The claim they were prohibition agents in search of a still was not made until they were actually inside the home, the evidence indicated.

COLLEGE HEAD WILL BE HEARD FRIDAY

Dr. Ralph Hickok, president of the Western College for Women, Oxford, will speak at services celebrating the World Day of Prayer for Colleges at the Presbyterian Church, Cedarville, Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The public is invited to the service and Cedarville College students will attend in a body.

The board of directors of Cedarville College will meet Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, it is announced.

The exceptions which the Japanese foreign office took to a number of points in the peace proposals submitted by the powers were regarded in some quarters as having a double purpose. The first was to prolong the discussion of the peace proposals while the Japanese forces at Shanghai made a last effort to reduce the Chinese defenses of the city. The second was to emphasize the Japanese contention that the Shanghai situation bears no relation whatsoever to the Sino-Japanese crisis in Manchuria.

The first was in the nature of a "face saving" operation for Japan's military prestige which suffered a severe blow when the naval forces at Shanghai failed to reach their objective in Chapel when the attack on the city was first made. If the Japanese forces could run the Chinese troops out of the city, in a last minute operation, Japan would be in position to accept with better grace the mediation of the powers. She would be doing so as the victor.

The second was to make sure that by accepting the peace proposals Japan would not create a

Grand Canyon Only a "Ditch"

This remarkable picture, made from a high-flying U. S. Army plane from Rockwell Field, Calif., makes the majestic Grand Canyon of the Colorado River appear to be only a ditch far below. Although the canyon is several miles deep at points, the altitude from which the photo was made dwarfs the heroic cut made through the rocky terrain by the turbulent Colorado. In fact, the river itself looks like only a thread of water. Note the three Army planes to the left of canyon.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Surely oppression maketh a wise man mad; and a gift destroyeth the heart. — Ecclesiastes, vii, 7.

RADIO ABUSE

The fact, alleged by the Solicitor of the Postoffice Department, that more than $100,000,000 has been taken out of American pockets in the last 18 months by foreign lotteries operating largely by radio is another illustration of the extent to which the usefulness of a valuable means of education and entertainment is being endangered by abuses. Already the army of radio patrons in this country is nauseated with the increasing volume of ballyhoo advertising that is put on the air and resentful of the growing tendency on the part of certain stations to permit the broadcasting of what borders closely on slander. The continued prostitution of radio to such ends will be its undoing.

The first and greatest sufferers from this debasement of what ought to be safeguarded as a great educational agency are the people who have invested $1,500,000,000 in 15,000,000 receiving sets. When they bought those sets they had a right to expect that if they tuned in on broadcasts they would hear more than assertions about the merits of a toothpaste or the virtues of a particular cigar. The announcement of the sponsorship of programs has never been resented. As Mr. Frank A. Arnold, director of public development of the National Broadcasting Co., states the situation:

"The public does not seriously object to the proper use of advertising continuity or commercial credit. It does object to the improper use of the advertising privilege and is at present voicing its disapproval in an uncertain language. A part of this deplorable situation is due to the fact that altogether too few among those entrusted with the writing and placing of advertising on the air have learned the proper technique and are still obsessed with the idea that the value of their advertising from the standpoint of the listener is in proportion to the number of words."

Although the owners of receiving sets who have abandoned them in disgust are the primary sufferers from this and other abuses that have been permitted to grow up around radio, they do not suffer alone. The manufacturers and vendors of receiving sets are beginning to feel the public attitude through a contracting market for their goods. The broadcasting stations that make a point of keeping advertising on the air within proper bounds are finding that they are losing patronage and having their channels interfered with by over liberal issuance of licenses to stations that are in the business for only the dollars they can take out of it.

One of the great tragedies of commercialism is being enacted over radio in this country today. If this marvelous invention is to be preserved for the benefit of the Nation, if the interest of the public in radio is to be regained and sustained, there must be prompt and articulate support by the injured parties for any measures that may be proposed by Congress further to protect wave lengths and safeguard the public investment in receiving sets from destruction by fake and ballyhoo advertising.

Children Are Paying

By GIFFORD PINCHOT

(Gifford Pinchot was born at Simsbury, Conn., Aug. 11, 1865. He is a graduate of Yale university, later studying forestry in Germany, Switzerland and Austria. He has received honorary degrees from four universities. In 1892 he began forest work at Biltmore, N. C. From 1898 to 1910 he was forester and then chief of division of what later became the forest service in the U. S. department of agriculture. In 1903 he was professor of forestry at Yale, and in 1910 he was made president of the National Conservation commission. He was commissioner of forestry of Pennsylvania 1920-22. From 1923 to 1927 he was governor of Pennsylvania. He was elected again in 1930. He has served on numerous federal commissions, is a member of many scientific societies, and is the author of several books dealing with trees and their conservation.)

One of the most disheartening features of the present industrial depression is the way we permit our children to pay for the fault of our economic system. Children who should be in school are taken ing jobs from men with families, to work for little pay, children are forcing down wages for adults. If there are not enough jobs to go around surely employment should be closed to the child rather than to the adult. Child labor under the best of circumstances is not to be condoned, and should during a depression be absolutely taboo. Life for many workers is now too complicated and desperate to allow children to take part in it on such unequal terms.

If parents cannot without starving themselves keep their children in school, they should receive aid in keeping them there. The schools, in turn, have forced upon them the added and important responsibility of helping to prepare children for a life in which the economic competition has never been so great.

The significance of child labor cannot be ignored as a vital factor in the unemployment crisis of today. The United States census shows that in April, 1930, 225,000 Pennsylvania children 14 to 17 years of age had left school. Not all had found jobs. The children represented three out of ten children throughout the commonwealth.

By JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK.—The town has gone cuckoo over trick problems and mental tests. People who as children hated those John-is-half-as-old-as-his-brother-would-be-if-his-brother-were-ten-years-older type of problems with a virulent hatred, now sit up nights laboring over arithmetical enigmas which are basically similar.

Some of the teasers now going the rounds are not without color and even imagination. One, sprung at a party the other night, is such a hum-dinger—and incidentally so much more awesome on the surface than anything else in its class—that I've decided to print it.

The result should either end or initiate the craze in many homes; you will agree that there isn't much room left for elaboration. The problem:

A piece of rope weighs four ounces per foot. It is passed over a pulley and on one end is suspended a weight and on the other end a monkey. The whole system is in equilibrium.

The weight of the monkey in pounds is equal to the age of the monkey's mother in years. The age of the monkey's mother added to the age of the monkey is four years. The monkey's mother is twice as old as the monkey was when the monkey's mother was half as old as the monkey will be when the monkey is three times as old as the monkey's mother was when the monkey's mother was three times as old as the monkey.

The weight of the rope or the weight at the end is half as much again as the difference in weight between the weight and the weight plus the weight of the monkey. How long is the rope?

That little problem can be easily and simply solved. If you find yourself headed for a padded cell after several sessions with it, and if you want the whole amazingly simple method of its solution, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I'll rush you the answer. Could anything be fairer?

SPEAKING OF VICTORY DINNERS

CONGRESS TAKES RESUME OF ACTION IN PASSAGE OF FINANCE MEASURE

CHARLES E. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—The acquiescence of congress in the administration's financial rehabilitation program, virtually without investigation, was a striking illustration of the almost unbelievably slipshod fashion in which the nation's lawmakers occasionally take some tremendously important action.

Already many of them show unmistakable signs of wishing now that they could at least modify their approval of the $2,000,000,000 Reconstruction Finance corporation measure.

Yet the vote in its favor was so nearly unanimous, alike in the senate and the house of representatives, that in neither body was it deemed necessary to call the roll. The ayes-and-noes settled it so overwhelmingly that opponents of the plan had not even the spirit to demand a chance to put their names on record.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation method of tackling the depression never did have any such number of real supporters, either among senators or representatives, as the voting on it indicated.

Maybe it would have had a majority had all hands voted their actual convictions; maybe not. There is no telling, but it would not have been far from a 50-50 break one way or the other. Personal talks with them leave no doubt that some of the legislators helped to create the corporation in spite of out-and-out objections which they felt toward the policy it embodies. Others who lent their aid to the task did so with small faith that the reconstruction machinery will accomplish much—except temporarily, anyhow.

The corporation got the majorities it did simply because the senators and representatives were all but unanimous in fearing to vote negatively lest they be accused of having opposed a proposition to revive prosperity. Dozens of them frankly say so—confidentially.

The breath of life having been breathed into the Reconstruction Finance corporation, however, the solons' suspicions of it were not long in beginning to manifest themselves.

The bill authorizing the corporation, with power to issue $1,500,000,000 in government bonds, to raise money to loan to distressed industries, provided no immediate available funds for the cash drawer. A second measure, appropriating $500,000,000 from the U. S. treasury to meet this requirement, awaited passage. When it came up for action by the senate, Senator Hugo L. Black offered an amendment.

The Alabama pointed to the number of big companies which, being unable to pay dividends and therefore likely to be seekers after public loans, from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, nevertheless managed to pay salaries to their officials up to $250,000, besides bonuses of as much as $1,000,000.

Black suggested that government loans be denied to concerns paying bonuses, or salaries exceeding $15,000, which is as much as the vice president receives—and is as large a dose, said the Dixie-land statesman, as in his opinion, any captain of industry ought to expect the taxpayers to dig up for him per annum.

Seldom has there been such a scurrying around in the senate as followed this threat of a serious fight against the adoption of a genuinely essential detail of the Reconstruction Finance corporation set-up.

The amendment was beaten, indeed, but it was beaten only about 2-to-1.

A 2-to-1 defeat is a substantial defeat, but it is to be borne in mind that earlier votes on all details of the administration plan were a dozen 20-to-1 in line with administration wishes.

In short, the test on the Black amendment marked the start of a decided shying away from the Reconstruction Finance corporation plan.

It was too belated a shying away to make any difference. The plan was hustled through with a speed which gave congress no time maturely to consider what it was doing. Congress can be hustled too occasionally.

Representatives and senators who are not sure of the Reconstruction Finance corporation's ability to do all that was promised for it, believe it more advisable to make no more extraordinary promises or accomplishment. These critics say that it may do more harm than good in the long run.

These men are wholeheartedly for any plan or relief measure that will lead the way to restored confidence, readjustment and jobs. But they believe sincerely that the road to renewed prosperity will have to be through readjustments more fundamental than provided in the Reconstruction Finance corporation, however necessary it may be at this time to extend credits to ailing corporations. That view, of course, is expressed by leading bankers also.

If, however, the corporation simply restores confidence it will have accomplished a great deal, the bankers add.

GETTING AHEAD

(How Well Known Persons Achieved Success)

J. C. PENNY

Founder of a chain store system, operating 1,500 retail drygoods and department stores.

QUESTION: Do you believe the young man of today has the same opportunity you had when you started out with nothing?

ANSWER: He has a far greater opportunity than ever before, for with the growing complexities of our national living have come constantly increasing opportunities for the expression of individual initiative. The young man today should face his own future with courage and the willingness to pay the price of success. Industry, loyalty, hard work and genuine desire to serve the public remain the basic ingredients of a successful career. Genius is not something which is bestowed upon an individual; it is merely what comes to him as he develops his own personal powers of advancement to their maximum efficiency. If I were to offer one criticism of the modern spirit, I would say that it looks for financial reward to come too quickly.

A man must pay for success. He must pay for it in waiting while he builds. He must pay for it by being willing to stick steadfastly to one purpose until that purpose has been achieved.

FAIRY STORY

Shed no tear! O, shed no tear! The flower will bloom another year.
Weep no more! O, weep no more! Young buds sleep in the root's white core.
Dry your eyes! O, dry your eyes! For I was taught in Paradise To ease my breast of melodies—
Shed no tear.

Overhead! Look overhead! 'Mong the blossoms white and red, Look up, look up! I flutter now On this flush pomegranate bough. See me! 'Tis this silvery bill Ever cures the good man's ill—
Shed no tear! O, shed no tear! The flower will bloom another year. Adieu, adieu—I fly—adieu! I vanish in the heaven's blue—
Adieu, adieu!

How To Help

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

To see a child in a severe paroxysm of whooping cough makes your whole nature want to help. And when observed the characteristic phenomena of the disease—the whooping and the vomiting—are easily understood.

The child usually is warned of the approach of the attack by a tickling in the throat or sense of suffocation. It runs to the nurse or mother, or catches hold of the wall or an article of furniture. The coughing is loud and severe and unproductive. The constriction of the chest from this effort becomes extreme.

The glottis closes in a spasmodic contraction so that air cannot be breathed in; and as this spasm relaxes to allow inspiration the whoop occurs.

At last, a small amount of this tenacious mucus is produced and the child will usually run to the mother or nurse; she should assist by putting her arms around the child and compressing the abdomen.

A glass of warm bicarbonate of soda solution should be at hand so the attendant can moisten the finger or a cloth, and putting it in the child's mouth, help to dislodge the tenacious mucus from the back of the throat.

The vomiting is purely reflex and not accompanied by nausea. It results in no distaste for food; in fact, immediately after paroxysm is a good time to have the patient eat because that meal will not be endangered until the next attack.

Immediate aid by the mother or attendant will do much to aid the child during a coughing spell. The doctor's remedies do a great deal, but help on the ground at the time is imperative. There are three things the house mother can do.

First, give the child something to cough against. An abdominal binder is for this reason excellent. When a paroxysm impends the child will usually run to the mother or nurse; she should assist by putting her arms around the child and compressing the abdomen.

Second, diet. Too much attention cannot be expended on diet in whooping cough. The vomiting may be excessive with resulting weakness and emaciation. Small meals are best. Soft, concentrated, nourishing food is called for. Such articles as fruit or cake and crackers, which are liable to break up into dry crumbs, may cause particles to lodge in the glottis and initiate a paroxysm.

Third, inhalations. One of the best, if not the best, is a burning eucalyptus cone. The fumes from this are breathed in by the child.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

J. B.: "Regarding the use of insulin to increase weight, I am anxious to know if this treatment would have to be kept up for the rest of one's life if once started. I would like to know if this treatment can be given at home by the patient or if one has to have an expert to administer the insulin."

Answer: The treatment by insulin to increase weight does not necessarily have to be continued indefinitely. In most cases, after a start of weight increase has been made, the patient can discontinue it without loss. Most diabetic patients administer insulin to themselves and patients can easily be taught to do so. However, the first treatments would be better given under the direction of a physician, after which the patient can usually carry on alone.

Love All That Matters

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR MISS LEE: May I tell 'Anna' and others something about my marriage life?

"I started keeping company with my husband when I was 13 years old. At 16 I was married. From the very beginning we had little but hard luck, but it takes more than hard luck to break up a home where love rules. A year after a little girl came to us.

"Always I try to keep a smile on my face and a song on my lips. It helps hubby to face life with a smile. When he is a little excited I give him a kiss and tell him how wonderful he is. I baby my husband. They all like it. I do everything to please him. Marriage is bliss if you play it right.

"We have been married five years and, believe it or not, we are just as romantic as ever. We never have a quarrel because I won't quarrel with him.

"Oh, Anna, don't be afraid of marriage. Just start out with a smile and a determination to make it success, and you'll do it. Love your husband. Keep your temper down and do things to please him. Also keep yourself as attractive as possible. Don't ever marry for anything but love. There is nothing that matters but love.

MRS. J. R." Husbands and wives are alike in liking to be praised or "babied," as you call it Mrs. J. R. In a world of discouragements it is a wonderful thing to know that there is some one on whose love one can depend absolutely, one who thinks you are absolutely O. K. and who does not hesitate to tell you so, no matter how the luck runs.

And a determination to make marriage a success and to do everything in your power to make it so, is more than half the battle. May you always be as happy as you are now, Mrs. R. And many thanks for this glimpse into your home life.

LUCILLE: I should think that after going with a man for five years without a suggestion that you marry him, you would be getting a bit tired of it. Lucille, unless you are one of those "bachelor girls" who prefer to stay single and earn their bread and butter in an office or store instead of in their own kitchen. If you want to marry eventually and are tired of this dilatory young man, I would advise you to tell him so and accept a date with another boy, while you are still young and attractive.

IN LOVE: I cannot think a boy who constantly breaks dates he has made with a girl is very much in love with her.

D. P.: Keep right on going with other boys and in time you will forget.

SOMEONE'S SWEETHEART: If the fact that your boy friend uses bad grammar occasionally is the only thing about him that worries you, why don't you tactfully tell him his speech is incorrect? You can ask him to tell you of some of your own faults in return. If you can't do this, either stop worrying about the matter and make up your mind it is of no consequence, or go with the other boy who talks correctly.

You are very wise to decide not to try to change a man after you marry him.

BILLIE E. L. C.: Why do you want to call the first boy back when he treated you so badly? As to the other, he surely would write to you if he was interested, so don't bother your head about him either.

Mouth Mars Beauty

By GLADYS GLAD

"DEAR MISS GLAD: My mouth is exceedingly long and detracts quite a bit from my appearance. I cannot afford to have it corrected by plastic surgery, but I'd appreciate it very much if you'd tell me if there's anything that I can do to make my mouth appear smaller. Thanks, Essie."

If your mouth is unattractively long, you should emphasize the center of it with your lipstick, exaggerating the cupid's bow a little on the upper lip. And you should not let the color run out to the very ends of your mouth. Your mouth corners should be devoid of color entirely. Do not apply your lipstick heavily, either, for if you do, it will tend to make your mouth too prominent. Emphasize your eyes or some other feature, in order to attract attention away from your mouth. If you feel that your mouth contours detract from your appearance.

"Dear Miss Glad: I know that beauticians usually advise that the hair be brushed vigorously every day, but I'm wondering whether it would really be wise for me to do this. You see, my hair is oily, and when I brush it, it seems to be even more so. I have tried to use some oil and more lipstick than ever. Would you give me some advice in this matter? And by the way, it might interest you to know that, by following the instructions in your 'New Figure' booklet, I've succeeded in developing my bust by three inches, and reducing my hips by four. My figure is now evenly proportioned, and I sure am grateful to you.

"FLORENCE."

I'm delighted to learn of your success with my "New Figure" booklet. As to your hair, I would indeed advise the nightly vigorous brushings. Oiliness results when the glands in the scalp relax and overflow. The hair becomes dank and lifeless because the oil, which should flow normally through the hair, comes out at the scalp and is wasted. The brushings will distribute the oil of the scalp down the length of the hair, and if the brush is wiped on a clean towel after every few strokes, may even help to remove some of the excess oil. In addition, the circulation in the scalp will be stimulated, the hair roots nourished, and the oil glands assisted in regaining their normal functioning.

"Dear Miss Glad: I've recently been getting terrible styes on my eyes, and they certainly are disgusting. I've no idea what causes them, or what to do for them, but something certainly should be done. Can you give me any advice?" MISS M. T. R.

Any abnormal eye inflammation that tends to become chronic should always be referred to a physician or eye specialist. The eyes are far too sensitive to be submitted to the treatments of an amateur. Styes are small abscesses that form on the eyelids—generally when the sebaceous glands become inflamed. Tepid, moist poultices of linseed will help to reduce the styes, but to be on the safe side, an expert's services should be enlisted in treating them.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Surely oppression maketh a wise man mad; and a gift destroyeth the heart. — Ecclesiastes, vii, 7.

RADIO ABUSE

The fact, alleged by the Solicitor of the Postoffice Department, that more than $100,000,000 has been taken out of American pockets in the last 18 months by foreign lotteries operating largely by radio is another illustration of the extent to which the usefulness of a valuable means of education and entertainment is being endangered by abuses. Already the army of radio patrons in this country is nauseated with the increasing volume of ballyhoo advertising that is put on the air and resentful of the growing tendency on the part of certain stations to permit the broadcasting of what borders closely on slander. The continued prostitution of radio to such ends will be its undoing.

The first and greatest sufferers from this debasement of what ought to be safeguarded as a great educational agency are the people who have invested $1,500,000,000 in 15,000,000 receiving sets. When they bought these sets they had a right to expect that if they tuned in on broadcasts they would hear more than assertions about the merits of a toothpaste or the virtues of a particular cigar. The announcement of the sponsorship of programs has never been resented. As Mr. Frank A. Arnold, director of public development of the National Broadcasting Co., states the situation:

"The public does not seriously object to the proper use of advertising continuity or commercial credit. It does object to the improper use of the advertising privilege and is at present voicing its disapproval in no uncertain language. A part of this deplorable situation is due to the fact that altogether too few among those entrusted with the writing and placing of advertising on the air have learned the proper technique and are still obsessed with the idea that the value of their advertising from the standpoint of the listener is in proportion to the number of words."

Although the owners of receiving sets who have abandoned them in disgust are the primary sufferers from this and other abuses that have been permitted to grow up around radio, they do not suffer alone. The manufacturers and vendors of receiving sets are beginning to feel the public attitude through a contracting market for their goods. The broadcasting stations that make a point of keeping advertising on the air within proper bounds are finding that they are losing patronage and having their channels interfered with by over liberal issuance of licenses to stations that are in the business for only the dollars they can take out of it.

One of the great tragedies of commercialism is being enacted over radio in this country today. If this marvelous invention is to be preserved for the benefit of the Nation, if the interest of the public in radio is to be regained and sustained, there must be prompt and articulate support by the injured parties for any measures that may be proposed by Congress further to protect wave lengths and safeguard the public investment in receiving sets from destruction by fake and ballyhoo advertising.

The corporation got the majorities it did simply because the senators and representatives were all but unanimous in fearing to vote negatively lest they be accused of having opposed a proposition to revive prosperity. Dozens of them frankly say so—confidentially.

The breath of life having been breathed into the Reconstruction Finance corporation, however, the solons' suspicions of it were not long in beginning to manifest themselves.

The bill authorizing the corporation, with power to issue $1,500,000,000 in government bonds, to raise money to loan to distressed industries, provided no immediately available funds for the cash drawer. A second measure, appropriating $500,000,000 from the U. S. treasury to meet this requirement, awaited passage. When it came up for action by the senate, Senator Hugo L. Black offered an amendment.

The Alabama pointed to the number of big companies which being unable to pay dividends and therefore likely to be seekers after public loans, from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, nevertheless manage to pay salaries to their officials up to $250,000, besides bonuses of as much as $1,000,000.

Black suggested that government loans be denied to concerns paying bonuses, or salaries exceeding $15,000, which is as much as the vice president receives—and is as large a dose, said the Dixie-land statesman, as in his opinion, any captain of industry ought to expect the taxpayers to dig up for him per annum.

Seldom has there been such a scurrying around in the senate as followed this threat of a serious fight against the adoption of a genuinely essential detail of the Reconstruction Finance corporation set-up.

The amendment was beaten, indeed, but it was beaten only about 2-to-1.

A 2-to-1 defeat is a substantial defeat, but it is to be borne in mind that earlier votes on all details of the administration plan have been a dozen or 20-to-1 in line with administration wishes.

In short, the test on the Black amendment marked the start of a decided shying away from the Reconstruction Finance corporation plan.

It was too belated a shying away to make any difference.

Early Plowing, Lazy Cats Vegetables on An Altar Other People's Business

By MARSHALL MASLIN

A man is doing his early plowing. I see him there in his field. . . . The rain has fallen heavily on his land. It is heavy and dark and soaked. Where the plowshare turns it over I can see it shine. The birds follow him busily, hungrily. He plows a straight furrow. When he sees me looking at him he waves cheerfully at me. . . . Few things are better than the sight of a man plowing deeply, plowing hopefully, in his own field.

Our cat is useless these days. He isn't a kitten any more.

A few months ago the first thing he did in the morning was to rub his muzzle affectionately against your face.

Now all he does is sleep before the fire and hang around the ice-box. He ought to be ashamed of himself, but he doesn't seem to be. He is letting us know that, after all, he doesn't belong to us—he belongs only to himself.

Two years ago I passed a hole in the ground that had been a mine. A man told me it wasn't worth working any more, because the cost of getting out the gold would be more than the gold was worth.

Recently I passed that mine again, and men were busy all around it. It WAS worth working, after all.

Frequently, too, we dismiss human beings as useless and not worth bothering about. And sometimes we discover that we are mistaken.

I have seen many altars beautiful with flowers and burning candles. But the most beautiful I have seen was heaped with vegetables.

Last autumn, during the harvest season, there were carrots and turnips and cauliflower and parsley and bright berries, and that altar was rich with gold and red and green. It was richer, still, because it had been made beautiful with homely, usable things that are common in men's lives.

In our town when I was a boy, a great fuss was made because a fine woman, in her middle years, fell in love with a young fellow whom she had hired to manage her store. They were married, and even the children whispered about it as if it were a grave scandal. People waited for trouble to ensue, but they defied us and remained happy.

I grew older, I left that town, but I have always wondered about that couple. Recently I heard that they are still married and still happy.

If I learned anything from that, it was that other people usually know what is best for themselves.

How To Help

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

To see a child in a severe paroxysm of whooping cough make your whole nature want to help. And when observed the characteristic phenomena of the disease—the whooping and the vomiting—are easily understood.

The child usually is warned of the approach of the attack by a tickling in the throat or sense of suffocation. It runs to the nurse or mother, or catches hold of the wall or an article of furniture. The coughing is loud and severe and unproductive. The constriction of the chest from this effort becomes extreme.

The glottis closes in a spasmodic contraction so that air cannot be breathed in; and as this spasm relaxes to allow inspiration the whoop occurs.

At last, a small amount of this tenacious mucus is produced, and in attempting to dislodge it from the throat, the child gags and vomits.

The vomiting is purely reflex and not accompanied by nausea. It results in no distaste for food; in fact, immediately after paroxysm is a good time to have the patient eat because that meal will not be endangered until the next attack.

Immediate aid by the mother or attendant will do much to aid the child during a coughing spell. The doctor's remedies do a great deal, but help on the ground at the time is imperative. There are three things the house mother can do.

First, give the child something to cough against. An abdominal binder is for this reason excellent. When a paroxysm impends the child will usually run to the mother or nurse; she should assist by putting her arms around the child and compressing the abdomen.

A glass of warm bicarbonate of soda solution should be at hand so the attendant can moisten the finger or a cloth, and putting it in the child's mouth, help to dislodge the tenacious mucus from the back of the throat.

Second, diet. Too much attention cannot be expended on diet in whooping cough. The vomiting may be excessive with resulting weakness and emaciation. Small meals are best. Soft, concentrated, nourishing food is called for. Such articles as fruit or cake and crackers, which are liable to break up into dry crumbs, may cause particles to lodge in the glottis and initiate a paroxysm.

Third, inhalations. One of the best, if not the best, is a burning eucalyptus cone. The fumes from this are breathed in by the child.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
J. B.: "Regarding the use of insulin to increase weight, I am anxious to know if this treatment would have to be kept up for the rest of one's life if once started. I would like to know if this treatment can be given at home by the patient or if one has to have an expert to administer the insulin."

Answer: The treatment by insulin to increase weight does not necessarily have to be continued indefinitely. In most cases, after a start of weight increase has been made, the patient can discontinue it without loss. Most diabetic patients administer insulin to themselves and patients can easily be taught to do so. However, the first treatments would be better given under the direction of a physician, after which the patient can usually carry on alone.

Have you placed your order yet for a ticket to the 1932 season's opener of the Cincinnati Reds. Well, don't delay too long because the baseball season will be right on top of you before you realize it and Redland Field will be crowded to capacity for the first game, following a time-honored custom.

The Reds will play their first seven games at home, according to the official National League schedule, released Wednesday. They open a four-game series with the Chicago Cubs April 12, and then play three games with Pittsburgh.

Incidentally, our Osborn reader, Emanuel Good, doesn't think much of the chances of our Redlegs during the 1932 campaign. He hints as much in a letter of recent date, and goes on to say:

"In my humble opinion, the Cincinnati Reds have as much chance of getting out of the cellar in 1932 as the man who owned the little brown jug."

"Although the Phils are noted for their poor pitching, the Reds can boast of little better twirling. The difference between Cincinnati and Philadelphia is that the slugging Phils should finish ahead of the Redlegs because their batting is superior, while in the other department of play they are about even. "It appears when the Reds get good pitching, the Queen City team manages to lose 1-0 or 3-2, etc. And again on those rare days when Cincinnati scores ten runs, the other club gets eleven or twelve. When the Reds do hit safely, the blows are mostly all singles, and two one-base hits an inning is the extent of their average rally."

"So if it's a home game, the runners usually have the rest of the inning to get their breath; but is, until the side is retired. "However, the lack of punch at the plate caused the pitchers of Dan Howley to lose games that could have been recorded in the win column in 1931."

"But if the Reds do snap out of it, sixth place should be their peak. That is if . . ."

The Original Celtics, once the world's best professional basketball combination, were seen at their worst at the fairgrounds coliseum in Dayton Tuesday night while they were beaten badly by the Fort Wayne, Ind. Guards, 32 to 13. This probably represents the most lopsided defeat the Celtics ever received, and Fort Wayne looked about that much better. With constant bickering causing frequent interruptions and delays, the contest resolved itself into a debate. Rusty Saunders, the great Fort Wayne star, was at his best and was easily the outstanding player on the floor, far overshadowing "Dutch" Dehnert, inventor of the pivot play.

THREE GAMES WILL BE PLAYED FRIDAY

A basketball carnival offering three games will be staged at Cedarville College gymnasium Friday night. Bath Twp. High School boys' and girls' teams of Osborn will meet Cedarville High teams in a return double-header, the female nine contest starting at 7:30 o'clock and as a special attraction to headline the evening's entertainment, Cedarville College and Bilas Business College of Columbus will clash in the third game. No extra charge will be made for the college game.

Abandon Plan To Decide Girls' Champion

UNABLE TO ARRANGE SCHEDULE SO THAT TEAMS COULD MEET

Title Goes Begging For
First Time Since

A tentative plan to have the girls' division of the annual Greene County Class B scholastic basketball tournament conducted this month on an installment basis, extending the competition over a three-week period, has been abandoned.

This disclosure, made Wednesday by Supt. C. A. Devoe, of the Jefferson Twp. schools, chairman of arrangements, means that for the first time since 1919, no attempt will be made to determine the champion feminine court team of the county.

"To have carried out the competition among the eight girls' teams over a period of three weeks, as tentatively decided upon, would have made it necessary for some of the teams to cancel important games remaining on the regular season schedules," Supt. Devoe explains.

"This wholesale cancellation of contests proved the chief drawback and an objectionable feature in view of the financial returns that would be lost," he pointed out.

To award a championship this year on the basis of games won and lost during the regular season between the eight feminine teams is also an impossibility, according to Supt. Devoe, because all the teams do not play each other.

The school superintendents hope that next year a suitable plan may be evolved to ascertain the best girls' sextet, as in past years. Perhaps the "installment" plan of tournament may be approved in 1933, so arranged that season's schedules will be shortened and not conflict with the tourney play. Another alternative would be to arrange a "round robin" schedule during the season, in which the eight teams would play each other twice, once at home and once away, and the title awarded on a percentage basis of games won and lost.

The proposed "installment" girls' tourney, suggested for this year, was conceived as a method of circumventing the ruling of the Ohio High School Athletic Association, handed down after a popular vote, forbidding girls' teams from playing more than one game a week.

The competition of a two-day tourney play is considered too strenuous for the girls. It had therefore been planned to have four of the girls' teams play two games at Jamestown February 13, and the remaining four teams have similar eliminations the same evening at Bellbrook. Survivors of the first round games would have met on neutral floors in the semifinals February 20, and the finals would have been staged Saturday night, February 27, preliminary to the finals in the boys' tournament at Bath Twp. High School in Osborn that evening.

EAST BOOKS GAME

Still unbeaten in Hi-Y League competition this season, East High School's basketball quintet will strive to duplicate a recent victory over the Wilberforce Academy Hi-Y cagers in a return contest at East gymnasium Monday night. A few weeks ago East beat Wilberforce, 18 to 3, on the university floor. A preliminary game at 7:30 o'clock, in which the East High "Laker Tamers" will be involved, will precede the headliner contest. The East-Wilberforce game had been scheduled for Thursday night but was postponed.

SEEK ONE MILLION SIGNATURES

One, Miss Lena Madasin Phillips; 2, Mrs. Geline M. Bowman; 3, Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker; 4, Mrs. Ella A. Boole; 5, Mrs. John F. Sippell; 6, Dr. Mary E. Woolley.

The signatures of 1,000,000 women are being sought by the National Council of Women, of which 22 of the leading women's organizations of the United States are members. The names are expected to impress foreign governments with the importance of a proposed international congress of women to be held in connection with the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition in 1933, to which they are asked to send their most distinguished women as delegates.

Miss Lena Madasin Phillips, New York, is president of the council; Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, Austin, Tex., is chairman of international relations committee; Mrs. Geline MacDonald Bowman, Mrs. Ella A. Boole, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mrs. John F. Sippell, Baltimore, and Dr. Mary E. Woolley, South Hadley, Mass., are directors.

LONDON PLEASED

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The appointment of the American secretary of the treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, as Charles G. Dawes' successor to the ambassadorship to Great Britain was welcomed generally in the London press today. All agreed President Hoover had made the best possible choice for a difficult post. All papers referred to Mellon's long and successful financial career as especially equipping him for the post, which will cover a period of much debt and reparations discussions.

REFUSES REQUEST TO HALT MOBILIZATION; BOMBARDMENT RAGES

demolished in yesterday's attack. It was reported the Japanese warships shelled the Chinese railroad at Chiangwan, midway between Shanghai and Woosung.

The Japanese planes inflicted terrific damage in their newest attack on the North Station area, adjoining the international settlement.

Japanese headquarters reported two companies of their marines were trapped by Chinese fire behind the Rokusan gardens, north of Dixwell Road at the northern boundary of the settlement. The marines went out on a sortie expedition and were unable to return.

Foreign sources united in declaring yesterday's report of the sinking of a Japanese destroyer was false.

While Japanese officials called the report "ridiculous", others who saw the battle declared the Chinese gunfire was very feeble and that no shells were seen to fall in the vicinity of the Japanese ships.

United States naval radio messages from ships anchored near the scene of firing on the forts declared that three Japanese destroyers off Gough Island, some distance down the river from the forts themselves, were conducting the shelling.

They said the Chinese returned the fire.

No shells were falling near the American destroyer, the message said, although the Chinese fire was a serious menace. Their shells were falling far short of the Japanese ships, but were hitting near the Chinese customs service arsenal, which was filled with explosives.

Should one of the shells strike the arsenal, it would result in the destruction of everything in the area, the American naval message pointed out.

Japanese marines evacuated their posts within the American sector of the international settlement, which United States marines took over. The Japanese also withdrew from the British sector.

These marines, used as guards for the settlement, were withdrawn in accordance with an international plan undertaken after the Japanese trouble with Chinese assumed its gigantic scale.

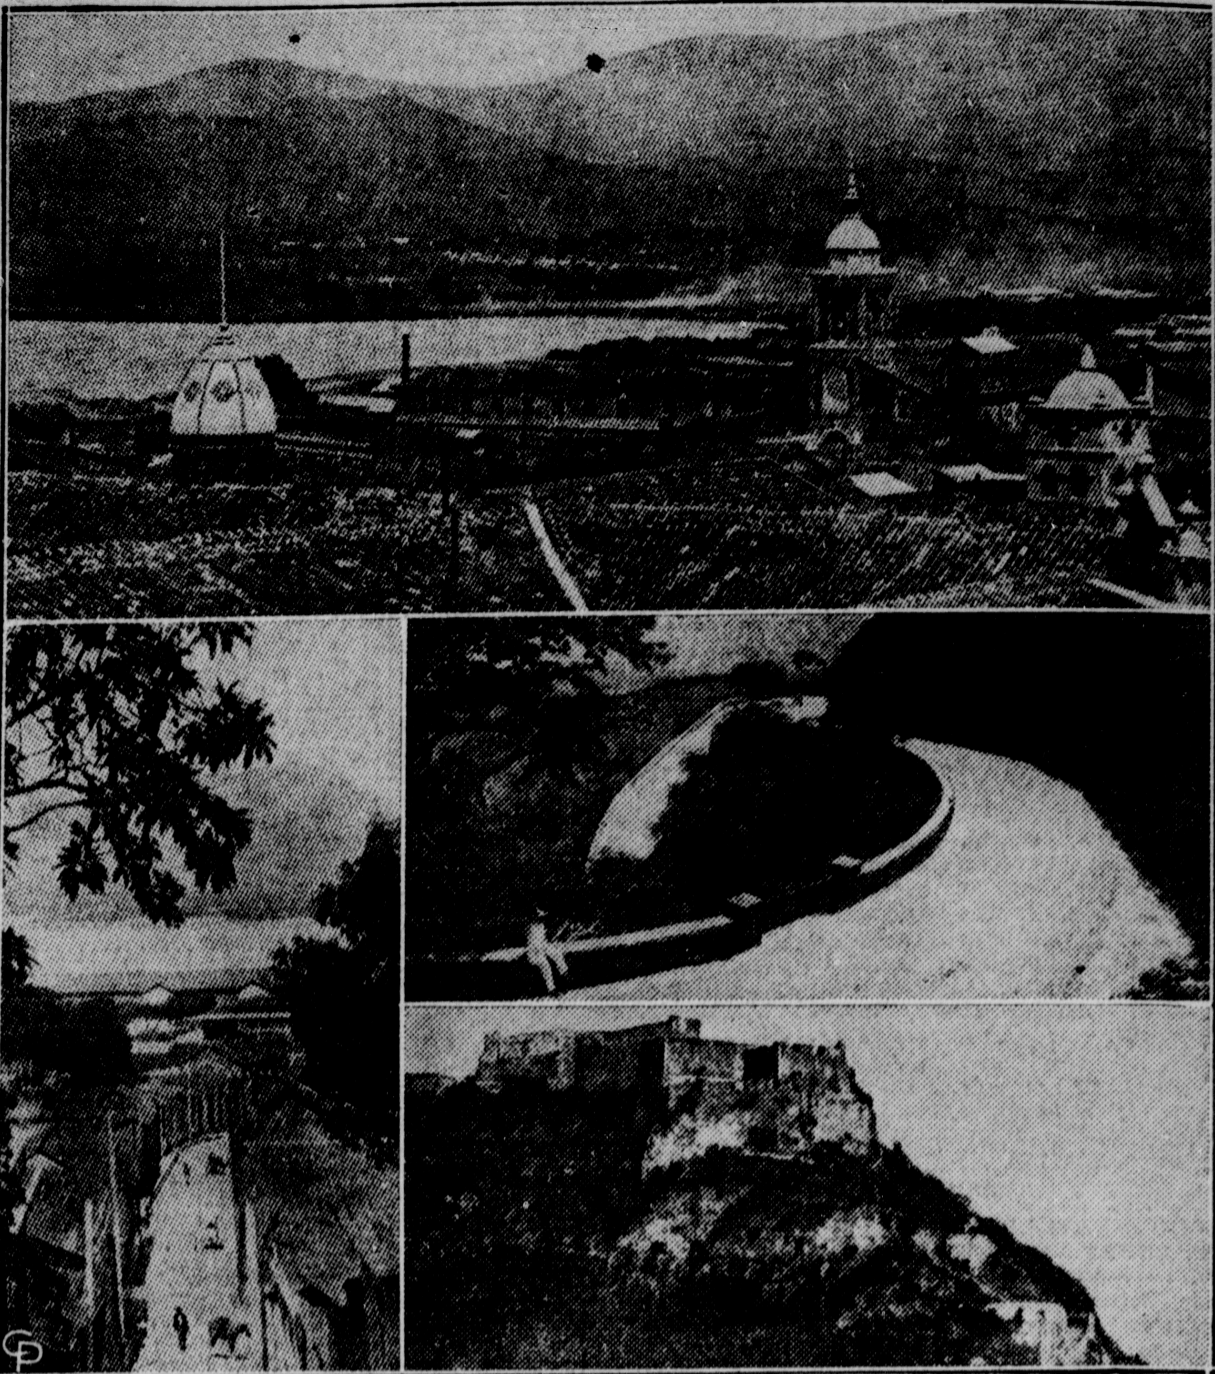

The Japanese aerial bombardment was going full blast at two o'clock this afternoon, eight hours after it started. In conjunction with the artillery fire, the Chinese counterfire also had been under way for eight consecutive hours.

Japanese marines were hampered by the weather and consequent poor visibility for determining the exact location of all the Chinese firing batteries. They tried to do this by sound.

One unusual side battle, also in its eighth hour at 2 p. m., was between a Chinese armored train and a Japanese destroyer. The armored train approached the destroyer from the north station this morning, when the Japanese destroyer opened fire.

Japanese officials said the attack on the Woosung forts was for the purpose of clearing the river for navigation to and from Shanghai.

Why Get Up Nights?

Physic the Bladder with Juniper Oil
Drive out the impurities and excess acids that cause irritation, burning and frequent desire. BURETS, the bladder physic containing Juniper oil, buchu leaves, etc., works on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. Get a 25c test box from any drug store. After four days if not relieved of "getting up nights" go back and get your money. If you are bothered with backache or leg pains caused from bladder disorders you are bound to feel better after this cleansing and you get your regular sleep. Sold at Donges Drug Store. —Adv.

PRISONERS WILL BE ELEVATED

Kansas City, Mo., is to have the unique distinction of elevating its criminals to the highest possible level—40 floors above the street! A $4,000,000 bond issue has provided for the erection of a combination county and jail building on the top floor of which will be housed some 500 prisoners. The new building, shown in diagram above, will occupy a square block in the central part of the city.

AMERICAN WOMEN LEAVE NANKING

NANKING, Feb. 4. — Further evacuation of American women and children from Nanking to Shanghai was to be carried out today aboard the U. S. destroyer Simpson.

Yesterday thirty-six American women and children, along with British women and children, left for Shanghai on a British steamer. Foreign men remained in the city, for the present at least.

Townsley Chick Chat

Twenty Thousand chicks have gone out from Townsley Hatcheries during January on advance orders. The people who bought these chicks realize that with present low feed prices there is money in raising broilers for the early market.

We are now booking orders for February and will have a batch off each Monday morning. All of our chicks come from accurately tested flocks. They are easy to raise. See us now for early chicks.

Wets Merge in House

James Beck (top)
John Linthicum

Republican and Democratic wets in the house of representatives have settled their differences and have named a joint committee to merge the scores of anti-prohibition bills into one measure. They plan also to prepare a joint resolution for submission of the eighteenth amendment to the states for amendment or repeal. Congressmen James Beck, top, of Pennsylvania, leader of the G. O. P. wet forces, and John Linthicum of Maryland, who heads the Democratic wets, will have prominent places on the joint committee.

The Advertisements

... printed for your convenience

Suppose all the advertisers in your favorite newspaper should stop advertising for a week.

What inconvenience would result! How much telephoning and shopping around to get the answers to such questions as: "What's playing at the downtown theaters? When will that new vacuum cleaner be on sale? Who is offering shoe bargains? Where can I buy that dry shampoo Emily told me about?"

The answers to these questions, and to hundreds of similar ones that people ask every day, are news. Vital news. You're interested to learn who won yesterday's ball game. But you're really interested to learn that a certain store is selling a product you need for a price you can afford to pay.

Furthermore, the advertisements save your time, for you can read them quickly. They save your energy, for you can read them at home, away from the pushing crowds, and plan just what to buy and where to buy. And they save your money, by enabling you to adjust your needs to the limitations of your budget. In short, they are pocketbook editorials, condensing and interpreting for you the merchandise news of the day.

HEADS OF ORPHANS HOMES WILL CONFER FRIDAY AFTERNOON

On the invitation of Capt. Harold L. Hays, superintendent of the O. S. and S. O. Home in Xenia, superintendents of five state orphan's homes will take advantage of the two-day child welfare conference of the American Legion of the Central States in Cincinnati Friday and Saturday to hold their own conference Friday afternoon at the Hotel Sinton-St. Nicholas.

The group of superintendents, following an interchange of views on the special problems of institutionalizing dependent children, will join in the balance of the conference program Friday night and Saturday.

Members of the girls' glee club and cadet band from the Xenia home will be guests of Managing Director John L. Horgan during their stay at the Hotel Sinton-St. Nicholas. They will be given a party in the main hotel dining room Friday night. Horgan will provide them with hats and noise-making devices and no efforts will be spared to show them a good time. The children are scheduled to broadcast over station WFBE during the dinner hour.

They will stop at Longview Hospital and the General Hospital on their way from Xenia to Cincinnati by bus Friday afternoon. The girls will sing at the General Hospital while the boys will play at Longview.

Delegates attending the welfare conference are expected to make a trip to Xenia Sunday to visit the O. S. and S. O. Home.

REFORMED CHURCH CLASSIS MEETS IN XENIA NEXT WEEK

Dr. Henry J. Christman, president of the Dayton Theological Seminary, will be speaker at services Monday evening in connection with a three-day meeting of the Southwestern Ohio Classis of the Ohio Synod of the Reformed Church which meets at the First Reformed Church, N. Detroit St., Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The meeting will open Monday morning at 10 o'clock and delegates, including pastors and elders from forty churches in the classis, will attend. The territory includes the Dayton Theological Seminary and professors and students of that school are expected to attend a number of the meetings.

All of the meetings are open to the public but the evening meetings are said to be of special interest. The Rev. Ward Hartman, Dayton, who recently returned from China as a missionary, will speak Tuesday evening. There will be no meeting Wednesday evening as the meeting will close late Wednesday afternoon. Business meetings will be held during the three days.

The meeting of the classis is held twice a year but this is the first time in a number of years that the group has met in Xenia. Officers of the classis are the Rev. L. W. Stolte, D. D., Dayton, president, who will preside at all of the sessions; Fred Koenigkramer, Cincinnati, vice president; the Rev. Walter D. Leis, Hamilton, stated clerk and Elder E. N. Staver, Ellerton, O., treasurer.

WORLD PRAYER DAY WILL BE OBSERVED

Observance of the World's Day of Prayer in Xenia will be held at the Tabernacle, E. Third St., Friday, February 12, it is announced. The observance is an annual custom here and both morning and afternoon services will be held.

The morning session will be from 10 to 11 o'clock and the afternoon session from 2 to 3 o'clock. Competent leaders have been obtained for the services and further announcements and the complete program will be made later.

Violently Parted

Believed to have been kidnaped by mistake, the six-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Agular, of Los Angeles, is the object of an extensive search by police of an extensive search by police of Mexico City. Torn from her mother's arms while sitting in a public park of the Mexican capital, the child was abducted by two men. Authorities are convinced that the kidnapers mistook the Agular baby for that of a Spanish woman residing in the same apartment and are confident the child will be restored unharmed. Photo shows mother and baby.

CROSS PURCHASED SALVATION OF MAN EVANGELIST DECLARES

The angels sang the song of triumph and all heaven rejoiced the day the Lord Jesus Christ laid aside His kingly robes, left the ivory palaces and the glory He had with the Father before the worlds were and came by way of the Bethlehem caravansary to this earth," declared the Rev. Ralph E. Stewart Wednesday night at the Tabernacle, E. Third St., to an audience that filled the building. The topic of his message was "The Cross of Christ."

He further said: "Did you ever stop to think of God's problem which He solved for the world by the cross? How could God, a righteous, holy, just being look upon that which His very nature abhorred and rebelled against—sin, that slimy, black tool of Satan that had ruined this universe and caused chaos and destruction everywhere? On the other hand sinful man had no medium, no standing through which He could approach his creator. Here they were: a father who could not look upon his sinful creature; a son with the barrier of sin barring the light of his creator—a great gulf seemingly unsurpassable. The destiny of the human race lay in the bridging of that chasm. It must be a righteous bridge and only God is righteous."

"The cross solved the problem. The cross of Christ has done all of these things for us—purchased our salvation—made our redemption complete. We are justified before God. The Scripture says 'Without the shedding of blood there is no remission for sins.'"

The largest crowd thus far in the "Crusade for Christ" campaign attended the services Wednesday evening and a delegation of more than 300 people, headed by a group of Cedarville College students, attended. Other groups that attended in a body were from Washington C. H. and Trinity M. E. Church, this city.

Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock young people's night will be observed and the evangelist will speak on "Is a Bird in the Hand Worth Two in the Bush?" Groups

"Crusade for Christ" Tabernacle E. Third St., Xenia Friday: 10:00 a. m.—Cottage prayer meetings. 4 p. m.—Children's booster meeting. 7:15 p. m.—Sunday School and church night. Mr. Stewart speaking.

Saturday Night Special! Topic "The Christian and His Amusements!"

will attend from Central High School, the Lebanon League of Dayton, Hi-Y Club, O. S. and S. O. Home, and Trinity M. E. Church.

Friday night is Sunday School night and plans are being made to group the various classes in the Tabernacle by churches. Each teacher is asked to sit with his or her class.

Saturday evening by special request the Rev. Mr. Stewart will speak on "The Christian and His Amusements." Included in this discussion will be the Christian view of dancing, theater going, card playing and other forms of amusement. Three services will be held at the Tabernacle Sunday—3 p. m., men's meeting; 6 p. m., union young people's service and 7:30 p. m., evangelistic service.

HEADS OF ORPHANS HOMES WILL CONFER FRIDAY AFTERNOON

On the invitation of Capt. Harold L. Hays, superintendent of the O. S. and S. O. Home in Xenia, superintendents of five state orphan homes will take advantage of the two-day child welfare conference of the American Legion of the Central States in Cincinnati Friday and Saturday to hold their own conference Friday afternoon at the Hotel Sinton-St. Nicholas.

The group of superintendents, following an interchange of views on the special problems of institutionalizing dependent children, will join in the balance of the conference program Friday night and Saturday.

Members of the girls' glee club and cadet band from the Xenia home will be guests of Managing Director John L. Horgan during their stay at the Hotel Sinton-St. Nicholas. They will be given a party in the main hotel dining room Friday night. Horgan will provide them with hats and noise-making devices and no efforts will be spared to show them a good time.

The children are scheduled to broadcast over station WPBE during the dinner hour.

They will stop at Longview Hospital and the General Hospital on their way from Xenia to Cincinnati by bus Friday afternoon. The girls will sing at the General Hospital while the boys will play at Longview.

Delegates attending the welfare conference are expected to make a trip to Xenia Sunday to visit the O. S. and S. O. Home.

REFORMED CHURCH CLASSIS MEETS IN XENIA NEXT WEEK

Dr. Henry J. Christman, president of the Dayton Theological Seminary, will be speaker at services Monday evening in connection with a three-day meeting of the Southwestern Ohio Classis of the Ohio Synod of the Reformed Church which meets at the First Reformed Church, N. Detroit St., Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The meeting will open Monday morning at 10 o'clock and delegates, including pastors and elders delegates from forty churches in the classis, will attend. The territory includes the Dayton Theological Seminary and professors and students of that school are expected to attend a number of the meetings.

All of the meetings are open to the public but the evening meetings are said to be of special interest. The Rev. Ward Hartman, Dayton, who recently returned from China as a missionary, will speak Tuesday evening. There will be no meeting Wednesday evening as the meeting will close late Wednesday afternoon. Business meetings will be held during the three days.

The meeting of the classis is held twice a year but this is the first time in a number of years that the group has met in Xenia. Officers of the classis are the Rev. L. W. Stoltz, D. D., Dayton, president, who will preside at all of the sessions; Fred Koenigkramer, Cincinnati, vice president; the Rev. Walter D. Leis, Hamilton, stated clerk and Elder F. N. Staver, Ellenton, O., treasurer.

WORLD PRAYER DAY WILL BE OBSERVED

Observance of the World's Day of Prayer in Xenia will be held at the Tabernacle, E. Third St., Friday, February 12, it is announced. The observance is an annual custom here and both morning and afternoon services will be held.

The morning session will be from 10 to 11 o'clock and the afternoon session from 2 to 3 o'clock. Competent leaders have been obtained for the services and further announcements and the complete program will be made later.

Violently Parted

Believed to have been kidnapped by mistake, the six-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Aguilar, of Los Angeles, is the object of an extensive search by police of Mexico City. Torn from her mother's arms while sitting in a public park of the Mexican capital, the child was abducted by two men. Authorities are convinced that the kidnapers mistook the Aguilar baby for that of a Spanish woman residing in the same apartment and are confident the child will be restored unharmed. Photo shows mother and baby.

CROSS PURCHASED SALVATION OF MAN EVANGELIST DECLARES

The angels sang the song of triumph and all heaven rejoiced the day the Lord Jesus Christ laid aside His kingly robes, left the ivory palaces and the glory He had with the Father before the worlds were and came by way of the Bethlehem caravansary to this earth," declared the Rev. Ralph E. Stewart Wednesday night at the Tabernacle, E. Third St., to an audience that filled the building. The topic of his message was "The Cross of Christ."

He further said: "Did you ever stop to think of God's problem which He solved for the world by the cross? How could God, a righteous, holy, just Being look upon that which His very nature abhorred and rebelled against—sin, that slimy, black tool of Satan that had ruined this universe and caused chaos and destruction everywhere? On the other hand, sinning man had no medium, no standing through which He could approach his creator. Here they were; a father who could not look upon his sinful creature; a son with the barrier of sin barring the light of his creator—a great gulf seemingly unsurpassable. The destiny of the human race lay in the bridging of that chasm. It must be a righteous bridge and only God is righteous.

"The cross solved the problem. The cross of Christ has done all of these things for us—purchased our salvation—made our redemption complete. We are justified before God. The Scripture says 'Without the shedding of blood there is no remission for sins.'"

The largest crowd thus far in the "Crusade for Christ" campaign attended the services Wednesday evening and a delegation of more than 300 people headed by a group of Cedarville College students, attended. Other groups that attended in a body were from Washington C. H., and Trinity M. E. Church, this city.

Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock young people's night will be observed and the evangelist will speak on "Is a Bird in the Hand Worth Two in the Bush?" Groups will attend from Central High School, the Lebanon League of Dayton, Hi-Y Club, O. S. and S. O. Home, and Trinity M. E. Church.

Friday night is Sunday School night and plans are being made to group the various classes in the Tabernacle by churches. Each teacher is asked to sit with his or her class.

Saturday evening by special request the Rev. Mr. Stewart will speak on "The Christian and His Amusements." Included in this discussion will be the Christian view of dancing, theater going, card playing and other forms of amusement. Three services will be held at the Tabernacle Sunday—3 p. m., men's meeting; 6 p. m., union young people's service and 7:30 p. m., evangelistic service.

"Crusade for Christ" Tabernacle E. Third St., Xenia Friday: 10:00 a. m.—Cottage prayer meetings. 4 p. m.—Children's booster meeting. 7:15 p. m.—Sunday School and church night. Mr. Stewart speaking. Saturday Night Special! Topic "The Christian and His Amusements!"

Bob Brown "Arrives" As Radio Announcer At WLW

By MILDRED MASON

ROBERT BROWN, or Bob Brown as he is known to all of his friends, chief announcer at WLW, Cincinnati, has "arrived" at just about the acme of his profession—the place where radio listeners always say, "Oh, tell us about Bob Brown!", to anyone who knows anything about WLW.

And here are just a few personal notes on Bob Brown for the benefit of his admirers. Bob drives his roadster very fast, stays up late, talks at top speed on and off the air, and lives at highest pitch every minute. Perhaps that is why he is able to dash off extremely creditable plays for the Crosley Theater with what seems like "a simple twist of the wrist." For those who don't know him—he's six feet tall, blue-eyed, brown haired, well-dressed, thin and married to Mary Steele, WLW soloist, who does him the honor to appear on the air as Mary Brown.

Glee Club on Air.

The Apollo Club of Illinois Wesleyan University, which consists of thirty male voices directed by Virgil Greene, will be featured during the National Farm and Home Hour over an NBC network through station WLW, Cincinnati, Friday at 1 p. m. Several federal farm board officials will speak on the same program.

To Give Beauty Chats.

The former Princess Ivanova Oblensky, who if the Czar had kept his crown, might now be reigning over Bessarabia, will give a series of afternoon beauty talks over an NBC network through station WLW, New York, and associated stations, starting Friday. In these weekly talks she will tell how the famous Russian beauties guarded their charm. The program is on the air at 2:45 o'clock but stations to broadcast it are not listed.

Veteran Star is Guest.

Victor Moore, veteran stage and screen comedian, will engage in several comic skits as guest entertainer over an NBC network through WLW, Cincinnati, Friday at 7 p. m. Moore has been a Broadway favorite of two generations of theatergoers. Leonard Joy's orchestra will be heard on the same program.

Cobb Returns to Air.

Irvine S. Cobb, author of innumerable humorous books and stories, will be heard in a series of programs on Friday evening over an NBC network through WLW, Cincinnati, at 9:30 o'clock. Cobb appeared on this same program a year ago and as in those programs he will tell anecdotes and will chat informally as part of the concert featuring an orchestra, male quartet and soprano.

Boomed in the West as Democratic candidate for

Pulitzer Drama Prize, May Not Again Surprise

Five Broadway plays are being suggested as likely fodder for the annual Pulitzer prize award, with the possibility still existing that the committee may, of course, turn its collective back on all of them.

However, unless an extraordinary hit should develop within the next few weeks, it appears that only the five following plays will get consideration: "Mourning Becomes Electra," by Eugene O'Neill; "The House of Connelly," by Paul Green; "Distant Drums," by D. T. Toner; "Counselor-at-Law," by Elmer Rice and "The Animal Kingdom," by Philip Barry.

The critics favor O'Neill's fourteen-act dramatic marathon, which is now in Cincinnati, although they are not over-confident since the prize committee's surprising upset last year, when the comparatively unknown "Alison's House" by Susan Glaspell, was given the award. If the prize should go to the Electra trilogy, it will be the fourth time O'Neill has won the medal. His previous winners were "Strange Interlude," "Anna Christie" and "Beyond the Horizon."

Green won the award once with "In Abraham's Bosom" and Rice won it in 1928 with "Street Scene."

Pulitzer Drama Prize, May Not Again Surprise

Five Broadway plays are being suggested as likely fodder for the annual Pulitzer prize award, with the possibility still existing that the committee may, of course, turn its collective back on all of them.

However, unless an extraordinary hit should develop within the next few weeks, it appears that only the five following plays will get consideration "Mourning Becomes Electra," by Eugene O'Neill; "The House of Connelly," by Paul Green; "Distant Drums," by D. Tosteroh; "Counselor-at-Law," by Elmer Rice and "The Animal Kingdom" by Phillip Barry.

The critics favor O'Neill's fourteen-act dramatic marathon, which is now in Cincinnati, although they are not over-confident since the prize committee's surprising upset last year, when the comparhas cost her probably more, than that in lack of work. Attorneys for Fox, Paramount, Warners, United Artists, Metro, First National and Radio, acting as "friends of the court" in the case, defended DeMille but were unable to talk Jetta out of her court award.

Dorothy Revier will go into the cast of "Night Club" at Universal in place of Estelle Taylor, who is in a plaster-cast with a fractured cervical vertebra in the neck and serious dislocation of the upper spine. She had apparently practically recovered from injuries received in a Christmas eve motor collision when a sudden pain revealed the serious fracture. She is not permitted to see anyone. Lew Ayres stars in "Night Club." Universal has put Earl Fox and Zasu Pitts in Tom Mix's picture, "Destry Rides Again."

UNIVERSITY SUED; ASKS FORECLOSURE; OTHER COURT NEWS

Suit to recover a judgment for $223.32, claimed to be due for legal services given in his professional capacity as an attorney from March 30, 1925 to December 6, 1927, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Archie D. Neale against Wilberforce University. Marcus Shoup is the plaintiff's counsel.

FORECLOSURE CASE
The Home Building and Savings Co., is plaintiff in a $2,736 mortgage foreclosure action filed in Common Pleas Court against William E. and Erna A. Williams with J. A. and Ruth Denniwick, claiming some interest in the property, named co-defendants.

ASKS DIVORCE
Asserting that her husband associates with other women and, to make matters worse, boasts about it to her, Nellie M. Carter has brought suit for divorce from Herbert G. Carter in Common Pleas Court. They were married January 28, 1928. Charging failure to provide and mental cruelty, the plaintiff seeks alimony and asks to be awarded custody of their child, Jane Elizabeth, born October 8, 1930.

DIVORCE GRANTED
On grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty, Lloyd Hoagland has won a divorce from Martha Hoagland in Common Pleas Court. The couple has no children. A settlement of property rights and the alimony question between parties to the action was approved by the court.

WINS JUDGMENT
John T. Harbino, Jr., has recovered a note judgment for $452.75 against Lewis Lee in Common Pleas Court.

MUSICAL COMEDY TO BE GIVEN TUESDAY

"Pickles" or "In Old Vienna", a three act musical comedy, will be presented by the music department of Cedarville High School in the Cedarville Opera House Tuesday evening at 8:15 o'clock. Mrs. Mildred Foster, music supervisor, and Miss Carrie Rife, principal of the high school, are directing the production. Sixty high school pupils will take part in the comedy and outstanding roles will be portrayed by Phyllis Platter, Gladys Baker, Robert Petersor, Gale Ross, Junior Luse, Mary Margaret McMillan, Harriett Ritenour and Joe West. Reserved seats are on sale at Richards' Drug Store, Cedarville. A similar production, "Tulip Time", was presented by the high school two years ago.

SCOUTS WILL OFFER PLAY TWO NIGHTS

A Scout play, representing an overnight camp scene, and replete with songs and stunts, will be presented by Troop 40, Boy Scouts of America, John Leonard Trummel, Scoutmaster, in the assembly room of the Court House Thursday and Friday evenings at 8 o'clock. Assisting the Scouts will be Mrs. Deane Gratz, who will sing a group of character songs, and Coleman D. Pattie, who will sing a solo. The entire program promises to be interesting as well as entertaining. Albert Thompson is in charge of stage settings and Mrs. Paul Fuller will be pianist. Proceeds from the entertainment will be added to the Scouts' uniform fund and the American Legion is said to be "backing the boys to the limit" to make the affair successful.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?
The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dark eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver. Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years. Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities. Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

DRY LEADER WILL SPEAK AT CHURCH

Dr. C. J. Yessley, superintendent of the Cincinnati district of the Anti-Saloon League, will be speaker at the morning service at Trinity M. E. Church Sunday at 10:30 o'clock. It is announced by the pastor, the Rev. E. A. Eager. Dr. Yessley has just returned from a convention in Washington, D. C., and will give many interesting sidelights of this meeting in his talk here. There will be special music by the chorus choir under the direction of Mrs. W. H. McGevey.

A radio will be installed in the Sunday School room and Sunday morning from 10 to 10:30 o'clock the school will listen to a program broadcast from WLW, Cincinnati, and sponsored by the Methodist Episcopal Kentucky Mountain Work Board of Home Missions and Church Extension. The Mountain Jubilee Singers will sing on the program.

"If men only knew"

"DON'T worry, my dear, only too many men are careless about shaving. I know it's a real cross for you to bear and I must admit I'm a bit ashamed of my son. All the other boys in the family are particular and I can't see why Jim should neglect his appearance. It's one of those things women find it hard to forgive. But I hope you'll be tolerant about it for a little while, anyway. After all he does love you dearly, and wouldn't willingly do anything to hurt you. I'll speak to Jim and see what I can do about it. I'm sure he'll shave more carefully and often when he learns how much a growth of stubble distresses you."

Far too many men are careless about shaving. They don't realize that bristles are repulsive to most women. In the past, shaving may have been an unpleasant chore. Today Gillette offers a new razor blade—the Blue Super-Blade that shaves the tenderest skin without discomfort. It is remarkably keen—especially designed to remove wiry beard from sensitive faces. We urge you to try the Blue Blade on our positive guarantee. Buy a package tonight and give the blade a thorough trial. If you don't agree every shave is unmatched for speed and comfort—return the package to your dealer and he'll refund the price.
